Joshua D. Hill

MEMBER CHAIR, PRO BONO COMMITTEE

Josh Hill focuses his practice on complex civil litigation, government investigations, and white-collar criminal defense matters and parallel civil actions.

Josh also works with the defense team in Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey that represents churches, schools, and youth organizations in the defense of lawsuits alleging institutional liability for acts of childhood sexual abuse.

Additionally, Josh counsels clients in a wide range of industries concerning export controls, treaty compliance and international trade regulations enforced by the Office of Foreign Asset Controls (OFAC) and the Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS). He regularly assists clients concerning the changing rules and regulations involved in doing business in Iran and Cuba. Josh recently assisted aviation clients in obtaining necessary licenses and permits in order to begin passenger service in Cuba.

Prior to joining the firm, Josh spent four years as a public defender with the Defender Association of Philadelphia, gaining valuable courtroom experience. Prior to his time at the Defender Association, Josh served as a law clerk to the Honorable Mark Bernstein of the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas.
