

Insurance Coverage Litigation

OVERVIEW

Disputes in today's insurance marketplace have become exponentially more complex, and take place in an increasingly robust regulatory environment. This challenging landscape has given rise to intricate disputes requiring counsel with a deep knowledge of the insurance industry. Eckert Seamans' team knows this complicated, highly regulated industry well, and applies that knowledge and experience in representing our clients in their most significant litigation.

Eckert Seamans' Insurance Coverage litigation practice encompasses the full spectrum of insurance issues, including defending insurance industry clients against complex and class action litigation. Our coverage team advises clients in the strategic use of risk management techniques to address potential liabilities, and has litigated and resolved multi-million dollar insurance coverage actions. Our clients entrust us with a wide spectrum of challenges, ranging from complex coverage cases, environmental, toxic tort, defective product, and general commercial liability to specialty policies such as directors' and officers', aircraft products, employer liability, nuclear, and fiduciary.

With the assistance of other attorneys in the firm, the Insurance Coverage team provides advice and counsel to the insurance industry regarding general operating practices and procedures, including employee relations, tax and accounting matters, marketing practices, mergers and acquisitions, corporate finance, and general corporate advice and counsel.

Eckert Seamans provides practical, results-oriented legal services required by the insurance industry for it to grow and prosper in an increasingly complex regulatory environment. We strive to provide outstanding value to our clients, through reasonable rates and alternate fee structures, and by collaborating with in-house counsel and claims adjusters.