

Securities Litigation

OVERVIEW

The strength of the Securities Litigation Group lies in the broad litigation experience of its members in the securities area as well as corporate, tax, employee benefits, labor and antitrust matters. Eckert Seamans' attorneys have represented a variety of clients in both the defense and prosecution of securities-based claims. Eckert Seamans' attorneys have served as lead counsel in all forms of complex securities litigation including matters arising under federal and various state securities laws. Firm lawyers have represented financial institutions, Fortune 500 companies, pension funds and brokerage houses, underwriters, accountants, publicly traded companies of all sizes and industries as well as a myriad of privately held entities.

Eckert Seamans' attorneys have represented publicly traded companies in securities fraud cases, including 10b-5 securities class action suits, and insider trading matters including Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) investigations. We have also represented numerous minority shareholders in squeeze-out/freeze-out oppression and dissenters' rights cases. One of our attorneys was co-lead counsel representing an international corporation in a number of high-profile suits brought against a major brokerage house under section 12(2) of the Securities Act of 1933. We have extensive experience in the litigation of Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO) claims, often brought in conjunction with federal securities suits.

In addition, Eckert Seamans has represented both minority and majority shareholders in both oppression and dissenters' rights cases and has represented both plaintiffs and defendants in both state and federal actions involving alleged breaches of fiduciary duties. Our representation includes both Fortune 500 companies and regional businesses in securities litigation cases commenced by shareholders in hostile takeover litigation.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

Eckert Seamans' attorneys have successfully represented clients in the following matters:

- Represented the officers and directors of a major multinational construction and environmental remediation company in connection with several class action securities fraud cases involving alleged accounting irregularities and financial reporting discrepancies;
- Represented a national law firm which had prepared a limited partnership offering for standard bred horses in litigation involving a multitude of issues including the adequacy of disclosures, the suitability of the investment, the quality of the Firm's tax opinions and the legality of the forecasting of economic benefits;
