Nicea J. D'Annunzio

MEMBER

Nicea D'Annunzio is nationally recognized for her expertise in defending mass tort litigation involving toxic exposures and product liability. A tenacious and formidable litigator, she combines meticulous preparedness with an unwavering commitment to her clients. Her vast litigation experience with a background in biology and chemistry sets her apart in handling complex scientific and medical issues.

With over three decades in her practice, Nicea has defended corporations embroiled in intricate, multi-party litigation across fields such as toxic torts, construction, environmental, and product liability. Serving as national counsel for several corporations in asbestos litigation, she has extensive experience developing and implementing national litigation strategies, coordinating local counsel, engaging specialized technical experts, and orchestrating comprehensive trial preparation. Clients commend Nicea's proactive approach, viewing her as a forerunner in identifying and tackling key issues at every stage of litigation, from inception to resolution.
