

Monakee D. Marseille

MEMBER

Monakee Marseille is a member of the Mass Tort practice group, which includes the defense of toxic tort, product liability, and personal injury matters. She currently serves as national coordinating counsel of an international manufacturer of naval and commercial equipment. In this role, Monakee oversees the discovery across the U.S., while ensuring consistency and accuracy. She also prides herself in not only defending the interests of clients, but building long term relationships with the client and their local counsel.

Prior to joining Eckert Seamans, Monakee defended mass tort claims for a high-profile manufacturer of aircrafts within the aviation litigation practice group of a global law firm.
