Corey Sullivan Martin

ASSOCIATE

Corey Sullivan Martin focuses her practice on commercial and business litigation, construction, product liability, education law, and other areas of complex civil litigation. She represents corporate and individual clients in state and federal trial and appellate courts, administrative proceedings, and at arbitration and mediation.

Immediately prior to joining Eckert Seamans, Corey practiced with a regional law firm where she focused on a wide variety of tort claims, product liability, first-party property claims, and insurance coverage matters. Prior to that, she served as an assistant district attorney at the Plymouth County District Attorney's Office for five years where she brought more than 75 cases to trial in both the District and Superior Courts.

As a law student, she served as symposium editor and staff writer for the Journal for Law and Social Justice (formerly The Third World Law Journal). She also served as a legal intern for the Institute for Justice and Democracy in Haiti, where she worked with an international team to prosecute former dictator Jean-Claude Duvalier for crimes against humanity. Prior to attending law school, Corey taught English language learners in the Bronx, New York, and Madrid, Spain.
