Jessica L. Rosenblatt

ASSOCIATE

Jessica Rosenblatt helps clients solve challenges arising under federal and state environmental laws. She advises on compliance issues, navigates permitting processes, manages environmental risks in transactions, and helps resolve environmental disputes and enforcement actions. Jessica guides clients through the multitude of regulations governing air and water quality, waste management, chemical spills, land contamination and other environmental liabilities.

While in law school, Jessica interned at the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection and the U.S. Department of Interior, as well as with Justice Christine Donohue at the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. She assisted in editing a textbook titled “International Farm Animal, Wildlife and Food Safety Law,” and served as Executive Content Editor of Joule: Duquesne Energy & Environmental Law Journal.

Prior to joining Eckert Seamans, Jessica practiced civil litigation at another Pittsburgh law firm.
