Alexandra Rogin

MEMBER

Alexandra D. Rogin is a litigator who focuses her practice on professional liability and complex commercial litigation, including matters involving professional negligence, breach of contract, business torts, financial services, fraud, and products liability. Alexandra's practice includes a particular emphasis on the representation of businesses, health care providers, and medical innovators in complex legal actions. She is involved in all areas of case management and phases of litigation. She has handled matters and argued before both trial and appellate level state and federal courts in Delaware and Pennsylvania, including successfully arguing before the Delaware Supreme Court.

Before joining private practice, Alexandra served as a judicial clerk to the Honorable Sherry R. Fallon of the U.S. District Court for the District of Delaware, home to one of the largest patent dockets in the country. As a clerk for the federal court system, Alexandra gained inside experience relevant to businesses, innovators, and professionals, which she has since been able to transfer into her private practice.

In law school, Alexandra served as the managing editor of the Drexel Law Review.
